Foreign vs Indian war of words over e-com policy

Bengaluru / New Delhi, 25 March

t was a divided house when industry representatives met government officials on Thursday to discuss the proposed e-commerce policy. Chaired by Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) secretary Guruprasad Mohapatra. the virtual meeting attended by more than 15 firms turned out to be 'a new FDI policy' versus 'a no change in policy' debate between home-grown and foreign-owned companies, according to people in the know.

The industry has been asked to send inputs in writing within a week to the government for further consultation.

Executives representing domestic companies sought an amendment to the FDI policy to widen the scope of group company, sources said. The definition of group should include affiliate and associate companies, while prohibiting direct or indirect control, they suggested. The draft e-commerce policy too highlights this point.

Speaking out against capital dumping through select sellers on foreign e-commerce platforms, this group stressed on the need for companies to comply with policy provisions.

to prevent misuse by foreign by trader associations that forcompanies. Reliance Industries (RIL), Snapdeal, Urban Ladder, Paytm and Tata Cliq are among those sharing this view.

According to a PTI report, a Reliance Retail representative said some foreign companies have used complex legal structures to exploit loopholes or used creative interpretation of the policy that violate the policy in spirit. The other side, representing firms such as Amazon, Flipkart, Pepperfry, Udaan, Swiggy, Uber, Ola and others, argued there shouldn't be any change in the policy to ensure stability and consistency in the e-commerce sector. They said the changes in the policy would have an adverse impact on the investment climate. In case of any irregularities, investigative agencies can step in, according Also, referring to a current ret- to one of the companies in this ail FDI policy, the Indian firms group. The demand for a comhave asked the government to prehensive e-commerce policy review a manufacturing clause gathered pace after complaints eign marketplace players such as Amazon were violating FDI norms by investing in select sellers and giving them preference in sales. The government does not allow FDI in the ecommerce inventory model (owning products and selling them directly to buyers). After violations were detected, it was mandated that no seller must exceed 25 per cent of the total business on any foreign e-commerce platform. Pointing out that the government should have a "longerterm view" of e-commerce to keep the policy "stable", companies with significant global funding said the sector required FDI and many emerging companies including startups were looking for such investments. They added that policy stability was the need of the hour at a time when many firms were going for public listing. "A good investment climate would help attract new investpanies to explore the IPO market," said an industry official with direct knowledge about the meeting. "For that, it is important that policy consistency and stability remains."

E-commerce firms told the government that they have made investments in the country under a legitimate policy regime. They said as a principle, policy change should be prospective and forward-looking so that investments already made are not impacted. "Any change that does the opposite will dent investor confidence and sentiment," said a company official

An Amazon spokesperson said the company welcomes the DPIIT initiative for consultations with the industry and the opportunity for a constructive and continuing dialogue with the government. "We reiterated our strong, long-term commitment to India as we continue to onboard hundreds of thousands of MSMEs, building infrastructure and technology to empower and scale these local businesses," said an Amazon spokesperson.

"The FDI policy needs to be stable and predictable for investor confidence as any disruption in business will impact millions of livelihoods and jobs, have negative consequences on downstream suppliers and service providers," the spokesperson added.

HC grants bail to Deepak Kochhar

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Mumbai, 25 March

The Bombay High Court on Thursday granted bail to Deepak Kochhar (pictured), husband of former ICICI Bank CEO Chanda Kochhar, in a money laundering case registered by the Enforcement Directorate (ED). Kocchar had approached the high court after a special court in the city rejected his bail plea in December last year. Justice PD Naik of the high court, while granting bail to Kochhar on Thursday, directed him to furnish a personal bond of ₹3 lakh. The high court also directed Kochhar to surrender his passport before the special court in the city hearing the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) cases, and asked him to co-operate with the probe. Kochhar was arrested by the ED in September last year under the PMLA in the alleged ICICI Bank-Videocon money laundering case.

The ED had registered the money laundering case following an FIR by the Central Bureau of Investigation tampering with the evidence when out (CBI) against the Kochhar couple, on bail. The detailed order of the high Videocon Group promoter Venugopal court in the case is awaited.

Dhoot, and others for allegedly causing loss to the ICICI Bank by sanctioning loans to the Videocon Group of companies in contravention of the policies of the ICICI Bank.

Kochhar had argued that the ED had taken note of all the alleged proceeds of the crime in the case, so there was no chance of him creating any third party rights or interfering with the probe if out on bail.

He had also said in his bail plea that the entire case against him was on documentary evidence, which was already in the ED's possession, and hence there was no question of him

Orchid Pharma shares soar 11,700% after change of guard

Analysts, however. believe investors should await company's return to growth

TE NARASIMHAN Chennai, 25 March

Chennai-based Orchid Pharma's stock touched ₹2.129 on Thursday, up more than 11,700 per cent from ₹18 in November 1,000.0 2020, bringing cheer to Dhanuka Laboratories (DLL), which took over the company almost a year ago, under the 0 National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) resolution process. While the gains have been phenomenal, experts markets currently. DLL ₹2,600-2,700 taking into advise caution.

Though Orchid was under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) process, the company's four plants were operational. The new management infused money for the company's operations and research capabilities.

DLL officials say demand for Orchid's products is growing and given strong client relationships, most of its customers are back with the firm. The acquisition of Orchid Pharma will help DLL expand the new scheme of arrangeits presence in the regulated ment. Moreover, pricing pressures and compliance require-sales to regulated markets, would be key challenges.

The sharp surge in the stock price is also a result of low floating stock as 98.07 per cent of the equity is held by promoters. Finally, valuations at 18 times FY20 sales are also on the expensive side, said analysts. Rating agency CARE in September 2019 withdrew ratings for Orchid Pharma after the company did not disclose information. In October 2020. the latest report from CARE, it rated the company as stable.

The ratings assigned to Orchid Pharma (Orchid) take into account the change in management and control of the company post the restructuring under NCLT-approved process. While the rating draws comfort from the new promoter's experience in the pharmaceutical industry and infusion of funds to aid the company's operations, the ratings are constrained by the low capacity utilisation of Orchid's facilities and moderate debt coverage indicators.

During April 2020 to December 2021, Orchid reported a consolidated net loss of ₹91.80 crore as against a loss of ₹92.21 crore, a year ago. In this backdrop, how soon the new management can deliver on its promises will determine the future returns for shareholders.
